

RoHS Compliance Statement

The RoHS directive, issued in the European Union, restricts the use of ten hazardous materials in electronic and electrical equipment (EEE). A product is RoHS compliant if it does not exceed the allowable amounts of these restricted substances. All EEE sold in the UK and EU must be RoHS compliant.

Cherrytech Ltd., hereby certifies that all products manufactured and sold to both the UK and EU member states meet the requirements of the RoHS directive.

There are certain products which are exempt from the RoHS directive and should we receive a request from a customer to supply such products we will require their written authority to proceed.
